1. INTRODUCTION

This document outlines the standards that apply to the formatting and lodgement of electronic evidentiary material for court proceedings with the exception of “e-Trials” that are conducted in the Supreme and District Courts. For information specifically relating to e-Trials refer to the following:

- Protocol for Etrials
- Etrial Bulk Upload Template
- Etrial Bulk Example.

1.1. Non-Compliance with Standards

Non-compliance with the standards outlined in this document may result in delays to the court proceedings, and, or, additional costs for the parties to the proceedings.

1.2. Court Locations

These standards apply to all court locations staffed by the Department of the Justice (DoJ). A list of these court locations can be found at “Annexure A.”

1.3. Courtroom Types

For the purposes of this document, there are three types of Courtrooms (A, B and C.) The dot points below provide a high level description of the system for each type. The list of court locations at “Annexure A” shows the number of type of courtrooms at each location.

1.3.1. Type A & B

A “Type A & B” courtroom where personal computer (PC) based programs and DVD videos can be displayed to participant in the Court including playback of PC based evidence from the Bar Table\Counsel Bench.

1.3.2. Type C

A “Type C” courtroom that have DVD and PC video evidence can be displayed. Within both courtrooms, play back is only achieved by a simple display and there may be restricted viewing.

Type	Description
A	Full Electronic Courtroom
B	Fully integrated audio-visual - video conferencing, audio conferencing, RWR, evidence playback and basic PC playback
C	Video playback and digital recording
C+	Video playback , digital recording and basic video conferencing

1.4. Contacting DoJ Courts in Relation to Electronic Evidence

Contact with the Supreme Court, District Court, Family Court, Coroner’s Court and the State Administrative Tribunal should always be made to the Perth registry of that court or tribunal, regardless of where the court is sitting. Contact with a Magistrates or Children’s Court office should always be made to the registry where the court is sitting.

1.5. Other Court Locations

Any party wishing to lodge electronic material at a court NOT managed by the Department of Justice should make contact with that court registry to establish what standards apply to that location. A list of these court locations and their telephone and facsimile numbers can be found at “Annexure B”.

2. FORMAT OF EVIDENCE AND COURTROOM TYPES

The following table lists the acceptable formats of electronic evidence in Western Australian Courts managed by the Department of Justice. Please note that all PC based electronic evidence files must be compatible with the Windows 10 Operating System.

2.1. PC Based Files

Any person wishing to lodge any PC based evidence must immediately contact the court registry to determine whether a courtroom is available to conduct the proceedings. Upon contacting the court registry, a court officer will advise whether a courtroom is available and the next course of action if the courtroom is not available. Failure to contact the registry may result in delays to the court proceedings and possible additional costs for the parties to the proceedings.

DoJ has developed a suite of software for evidence playback. The suite contains a number of format specific video and audio players, specifically Windows Media Player, VLC media player and GOM player. The file formats accepted by this software suite is outlined above. In addition, there are a number of other CCTV Players installed on courtroom PC's which are able to playback the following file formats:

- 000 Files
- 264 Files
- 400 & 600 Files
- 601 Files

- PAR Files
- PEF Files
- RE4 Files
- STK Files

- UMV Files
- VGX Files
- VGZ Files
- VVF Files

Please note that it is imperative for the Organisation / person presenting the evidence to detail the specific CCTV Player that has been confirmed to play the evidence presented prior to submission of the evidence in Court.

2.2. Playback Equipment

Where equipment in the Courtroom is unable to play the evidence, it will be the responsibility of the organisation / person presenting the evidence to provide equipment (i.e. Laptop\Notebook computer) that connects to the Courts Audio Visual system via a VGA (HD15) connector or HDMI (where available).

2.3. Other File Formats

Any person that has evidence in another file format will be required to convert that document or electronic file to a format that can be displayed in the courtroom display system. They must also immediately:

- Contact the Registry as listed in the Contact Information section,
- Ensure that the party or the representative of the party that issued the witness summons is aware of the conversion.

3. SUBMISSION OF EVIDENCE

3.1. Time of delivery

All electronic evidence should be delivered at least two (2) days prior to the attendance date. Note the Parties must liaise with the court and organise a time where the party can test the evidence prior to the hearing. If the documents are not delivered, or contact is not made with the registry, it may be necessary to adjourn the proceedings and it is possible that an order for costs may be made. It is the responsibility of the party to test that the evidence can be played on the court equipment.

3.2. Hand Delivery

Electronic documents can be hand delivered by lodging a storage device containing the documents at the registry of the court where the proceedings are taking place, at least two days before the attendance date; or by appearing in court at the time and place specified in the summons and delivering them into the custody of the court. If the documents are not delivered, or contact is not made with the registry, it may be necessary to adjourn the proceedings and it is possible that an order for costs may be made.

3.3. Storage Devices

When hand delivery is used, the court will only accept electronic information on CD disks, DVD-ROM disk for PC based evidence, DVD-Video (VOB) disks, or a USB flash drive with a male USB series A plug. The storage device must be labelled with, or accompanied by, the information listed below:

- Name of proceedings;
- Name and contact details of lodging party;
- Court file number and name (party);
- List of all file names on storage device and a description of each file;
- The specific Player / Software that is required to display / play the evidence;
- Length of time audio/video recording
- A declaration that the storage device has been checked for viruses;
- A declaration advising if the device contains objectionable material; and
- A statement as to whether the lodger requires the return of the storage device.

The storage device MUST NOT contain any files that are not being used in connection with the court proceedings.

The court will retain the storage device until the expiry of 31 days from the conclusion of the court proceedings. The storage device will only be returned to the lodger if a request is made for its return, if no request is made the device will be destroyed.

3.4. Electronic delivery

3.4.1. Email

Electronic files of a combined size of up to 4 (four) Mb can be delivered by email to the address listed in "Annexure A" against the court registry where the proceedings are taking place. Files sent via email should be checked for viruses prior to being sent and should be in a compressed format or "zipped" to reduce the size of traffic into the DoJ email system.

The following information must be included within the body of the email;

- Name of proceedings;
- Name and contact details of lodging party;
- Court file number and name (party);
- List of all file names on storage device and a description of each file;
- The specific Player / Software that is required to display / play the evidence;
- Length of time audio/video recording
- A declaration that the storage device has been checked for viruses;
- A declaration advising if the device contains objectionable material; and
- A statement as to whether the lodger requires the return of the storage device.

3.4.2. Document File names

During court proceedings documents, that are tendered and accepted into evidence, are given an exhibit number. In order to simplify this process every file should be named in the same manner by using the individual's family or surname of the lodging party and a sequenced number (e.g. JONES 1.doc, JONES 2.doc).

In the situation where an organisation lodges a document it should be named by using the organisation name and a sequenced number.

3.4.3. Description of files

In the list of file names, a brief and concise description of the contents of the file should be placed against each file. E.g. photograph - injuries - Lionel JONES, face; photograph - injuries - Lionel JONES, upper torso.

4. SCANNED DOCUMENTS

Always remember that images should be rotated to the 'right way up' before they are saved so that when the file is opened it is not necessary to rotate the image in order to see it properly.

All care must be taken to ensure that the electronically scanned version of a document is an exact replication of the original document. In order to achieve this, the following protocols have been developed.

4.1. Quality Control for Document Scanning

Quality control is not always easy to achieve, because of the state of the originals e.g. thermal paper documents, computer printouts, different coloured paper, handwritten notes or those of an awkward shape or size, etc. The following guidelines should assist to improve the quality of the images to be scanned.

4.2. Use of a Photocopier

Before scanning the original document it may be necessary to use a photocopier to:

4.2.1. Adjust the contrast – darker/lighter, especially useful if the originals are;

- Faded documents (thermal paper),
- Computer printouts with stripes down the page,
- On coloured paper.

4.2.2. Enlarge or reduce the size of a document;

- Enlarge – some small receipts,
- Reduce – facsimiles have message lines at the top and/or bottom of each page. To ensure they are not missed when scanned it is wise to photocopy the facsimile message, reducing it slightly, before imaging.

Always check before scanning or photocopying, that the page is sitting straight. Do not try to straighten an original that is crooked.

4.3. Scanning cheques

Use a photocopier's overlay feature so that the back and the front of the cheque appear on same sheet of paper and then scan the single sheet of paper.

4.4. Scanning of books

DO NOT scan every page of large documents such as diaries, cheque stubs, receipt books, and computer printouts; unless specifically requested to do so (refer below). The preferred method is to scan the cover of the book and then scan only the pages that are referred to or relevant.

A Field called "Extract" is included in the image attributes to flag a document as being incomplete.

4.5. Scanning multiple page documents

If every page of a document must be scanned it is important to check that each page is scanned correctly and that they are all included in the same file.

Once the scanning is completed the file should be checked to ensure that there are no missing pages.

4.5.1. Documents with Post-it Notes

- Blank post-it notes - remove before scanning,
- A post-it note with writing – scan with the note on a blank part of the document; or
- Remove the post-it note and scan, then scan the page again with the note on the page (save as a single document).

NOTE: that if this was a multiple page document, this process will also change the electronic page numbering so that it does not match the physical page numbering.
